VirusTotal.com Scan.Q: How do I multiply and sum the values of a matrix in R? I have the below code where I use apply row wise to produce a new matrix which is basically a sum of all the elements of x, for which i use a vector z with the first element being the row i that I want to sum and the rest of them being 0. So, for example, I can sum the first row of x, which is  $h = x[1, ]$ , and get  $r_1 + 0 + 0 + 0 + 0 + 0 = 0$ . I want to now do the same for the second row (i.e. the 2nd element in z), with transcatheter arterial chemoembolization is a safe and effective treatment for patients with unresectable advanced hepatocellular carcinoma. The purpose of this study was to determine the safety and efficacy of transcatheter arterial chemoembolization (TACE) combined with surgical resection in the treatment of unresectable hepatocellular carcinoma (HCC). Patients were identified from a database of consecutive patients with HCC. Patients who had undergone curative surgical resection were included, and patients with recurrent HCC, terminal HCC, or incomplete or marginal resection were excluded. Patients were also excluded if they had been administered adjuvant TACE after surgery. Twenty-five patients underwent surgical resection of liver tumors. Median survival was not reached, with a median follow-up period of 12 months. At one year, 15 of 25 patients (60%) showed no evidence of residual
